I don't like holidays with hotels, beaches and swimming pools, and I'm not interested in visiting old cities. I'd like to do something exciting. I could go on a safari and see animals in Africa. Maybe I should visit Australia and swim with dolphins along the coast.

But when I choose a place, I always have the same problem. I don't want to see lots of other tourists. The problem is there are other tourists everywhere these days. Is there anywhere in the world without other people?

What about Antarctica? It's huge and beautiful. Between 1,000 and 5,000 scientists work there. It doesn't have a government and there are no cities so there's no pollution or noisy traffic. It has lots of wildlife. It sounds perfect!

Actually, there are also tourists in Antarctica. Tourism in Antarctica began in the late 1950s. About 500 people a year visited Antarctica from Chile and Argentina at that time. Nowadays, about 50,000 tourists from all over the world go to the continent by ship every year and the number of cruises is growing.

Tourists can't spend the night in Antarctica, because there are no hotels where you can live, but you can visit areas with wildlife. Many cruise ships, which take tourists to Antarctica, are members of the International Association of Antarctica Tour Operators (IAATO). They teach their passengers about Antarctica and its wildlife. The cruise companies also give money to environmental organisations in the region. These organisations want to help the nature and wildlife of Antarctica, so it doesn't change in the future.

So, I think I'll go to Antarctica.

Meg: Hey, Todd. I know you've travelled a lot. What countries have you lived in?

Todd: I've lived in three countries. I've travelled to many, many countries. But I've actually lived in three. I lived in England for one year. I lived in Thailand for four years. And I lived in Japan for 15 years.

Meg: Wow. So, when you lived in England, how was it?

Todd: It was the first country I travelled to after college. And I had a work permit, a work visa for one year. And I worked at a restaurant, which was great. It was in the countryside. And I really enjoyed it. I lived near Cambridge. So, I was near Cambridge University. And then I moved to London. And again, I worked at a restaurant. I lived in London and just worked.

Meg: Wow. So, it was after college. How old were you?

Todd: I was 23 years old.

Meg: Oh, and living in London. That must be fun.

Todd: It was fun. And interestingly, when I went to England, I could not speak English. So, I could not understand British people. It took me maybe two months before I could understand their English. So, it was very, very difficult to understand British people when I first moved there.

Meg: Ah, so you liked it.

Todd: I did like England. It was fun. It was my first country. But the weather was cold for me. I'm from California, and California in the United States is very warm. So, I didn't like the weather. But that's okay because all British people don't like cold weather, either.

Meg: Oh, really?

Todd: Yeah. Everybody complains about the weather.

Meg: So after England, did you move to a warmer place?

Todd: I did. Right after England, I moved to Thailand. And I lived in Thailand for over four years.

Meg: Wow. Why did you live in Thailand?

Todd: I was travelling. And in Thailand I had no money and I needed a job. And I wanted to stay in Thailand, so I became an English teacher.

Meg: Really?

Todd: Yeah.

Meg: Did you teach English there for four years?

Todd: I did. So, I went there and I began teaching English. Then I got a teaching course certificate to teach English in Thailand, and I really enjoyed it. The Thai students were really fun. And Thailand is a great place to live because the weather is really nice. The people are really friendly and the food is delicious. It has the best food in the world, I think.

Meg: I've also heard that Thailand is beautiful. Is it true?

Todd: It is. It has many, many beautiful islands and it has got a lot of places with beautiful nature and the mountains. There are jungles and lovely beaches. So, it's a nice place to live.

Meg: So, you liked Thailand, too.

Todd: I did. Thailand was great. Yeah.
